Brussels, 3rd of July 2025

To whom it may concern:

As a professor of finance and accounting at the Solvay Brussels School of Economics and Management (Université Libre de Bruxelles), I have had the pleasure to meet Loïc Pfeiffer in 2025. From January 2025 to June 2025, he was enrolled in my “Corporate Finance” course.

The courses cover the main aspects of financial decision-making in both financial markets and corporate settings, including topics such as discounting techniques, financial instruments valuation (bonds, stocks and derivatives) and financial management in corporations. It requires students to have a strong theoretical background, solid critical-thinking skills, and to work continuously throughout the year, making this course one of the most demanding for its students. Loïc’s high marks obtained (16/20, among the top 10 of students) illustrates that he acquired the foremost financial tools and that he has a keen interest in those subjects.

More generally, our bachelor programme is a very demanding one that prepares students thoroughly for Master's-level studies. To conclude, I am confident that Loïc will be able to fully develop his potential in the academic world and will be a valuable asset to your university.

Sincerely,

Prof. Benjamin Lorent
