Supplementary notes

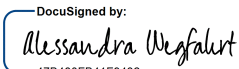

For the past six months it has been a great pleasure working with Felix. As an intern he has been part of the account management team, where he has been independently managing key accounts at an operational and strategic level. After the first few months he has shown his talent in communicating to the partners in a very professional, responsible, and calm manner and building a strong relationship for the future. Felix displays a very positive outlook and pleasant manner towards other colleagues and always offers assistance and support when needed. Most of all, he is highly accurate, detail-oriented and spots mistakes where others didn't.

He has shown to be extremely reliable and thoughtful, taking a solution-focused approach to problems and looking for ways to improve and promote quality. Felix is someone, who is willing to go the extra mile and surprise you with his organizational and forward-thinking initiatives.

Felix has shown that he has multitasking skills, is commercially driven, is analytical, has a good sense of account management and is great fun to work with. It has been a great privilege to have had Felix in our team and we would highly recommend him to any commercial department.
