Interim Letter of Reference

Mr. Robin Philip Rehschuh, born on November 14, [REDACTED] Germany, has been volunteering for 180 Degrees Consulting Frankfurt e.V. since November 1, 2025. The time commitment for an engagement in our student initiative averages approximately ten hours per week.

As a branch of 180 Degrees Consulting, 180 Degrees Consulting Frankfurt e.V. is part of the world's largest student-driven consultancy and, at the same time, the largest non-profit consultancy for charitable organizations and social businesses. We support organizations in increasing their social impact by offering consulting services in areas such as marketing, finance, organizational structure, and strategy.

During his tenure to date, Mr. Rehschuh has taken on the following responsibilities in his various positions:

Student Consultant (since 11/2025):

- Independent execution of research, analysis and structuring tasks within the project, in particular the systematic creation, maintenance and further development of a comprehensive long list using Excel (data preparation, categorisation, comparison and prioritisation) as well as the professional preparation of results in clearly structured PowerPoint presentations tailored to the target audience.
- Analytical evaluation of complex information and data sets, as well as their targeted visual presentation to support well-founded strategic decision-making; consistently characterized by a high level of diligence, a structured approach, and a strong understanding of underlying content and interrelationships.
- Particularly noteworthy is the remarkable initiative shown in the design, development and implementation of an independently developed web tool for visualising the long list, which significantly improved the transparency, comparability and usability of the project results and created lasting added value for the project partner.

Mr. Rehschuh has quickly distinguished himself through his profound economic knowledge and his ability to grasp complex issues rapidly. He approaches his tasks with exceptional initiative and a high degree of diligence, consistently identifying necessary steps early on and executing them independently. Even during periods of high workload and tight deadlines, he remains resilient and maintains a superior level of accuracy and reliability in his results. His commitment to driving the project forward is evident in his goal-oriented work style.

Mr. Rehschuh is highly appreciated by colleagues, superiors, and external partners for his professional, loyal, and helpful demeanor. He integrates seamlessly into the team and is always regarded as a trustworthy and cooperative contact person. We are exceedingly satisfied with his performance and his valuable contributions to our branch.

We thank Mr. Rehschuh for his outstanding commitment and look forward to our continued successful collaboration.
