

M&A Intern (m/f/d)

About TCG

TCG is a corporate finance advisory firm in Munich, Berlin, Stockholm and London, providing strategic and M&A advice to digital champions. We are the trusted M&A advisor for entrepreneurs, founders, investors, and companies active in the digital economy, and deliver exceptional results for our clients on transactions – both on the buy- and the sell-side. We are seasoned M&A professionals and serial entrepreneurs, who have built successful companies and sold them to renowned strategic buyers. We combine large investment banking skills from more than 100 deals with a boutique setup.

What you can expect from us

We firmly believe that for TCG to become the best advisor in Europe, we must recruit, train, and develop the best talent. That is why our ambition is that our employees' learning curve is steeper than anywhere else. Our goal is to develop you – and for you to develop yourself – as quickly as possible by gaining experience, expertise, and seniority on transactions.

How?

- By working on client projects from day one and carrying responsibility immediately.
- By working closely together in small teams that comprise some of the best and most experienced investment bankers in Europe.
- By receiving your own set of tasks and being allowed to – and expected to – try out and derive solutions on your own, along the entire process chain. This will include putting together the equity story and the business plan, preparing the outreach materials, building the financial model, and guiding buyers through the due diligence.
- By having seniors whose ambition is to maximize your learning curve.

And all of this in an environment that is non-political, diverse, considerate, respectful – and fun.

What we are looking for

We are looking to expand our teams in Munich, Berlin, Stockholm and London. We are looking for smart students who are at least in their 5th academic semester Bachelor and are interested in – or maybe even fascinated by – tech, consumer, and growth transactions. Students who are ambitious, motivated, team-oriented, can handle pressure, think analytically, problem-solve in a structured way and – maybe most importantly – want to work with, learn from, and ultimately become, one of the best.

Munich and Berlin: Business proficiency in English and German is a requirement as we serve clients in both languages.

Stockholm: Business proficiency in English and Swedish is a requirement. Proficiency in German is a positive.

London: Business proficiency in English is a requirement. Proficiency in German is a positive.

If this interests you, we look forward to your application to career@tcg-cf.com, comprising an introduction letter, your CV, and all supporting documents such as letters of recommendation including your school and university certificates.

For questions you are welcome to contact Judit Laczkó at jlaczko@tcg-cf.com.

We look forward to hearing from you.
